Introduction:

Talk about the virus and ask the learners what they know. Inform them that they have to listen to the rhyme so they can answer questions afterwards. Read the rhyme.

Virus

Virus, virus where are you?

I really think you belong in a zoo !

Perhaps it's time for you to scoot.

Quickly now before you get the boot !

I cover up my mouth and nose,

Why you go there nobody knows.

You make us want to cough and sneeze,

But getting rid of you's a breeze.

Sanitize before you arrive,

You're better off dead than alive.

Written by Theresa Pretorius

1. Why do they wonder where the virus is? Because it is very small and you cannot see it.
2. Where does the virus belong? In the zoo.
3. What must you do to avoid getting the virus in your mouth? Wear a mask.
4. What does the virus make you do? It makes you cough and sneeze.
5. What do you think can we do to get rid of the virus? Own explanations. It may be in this line. Listen to the president, teachers and parents. Wash your hands regularly with soap, wear your mask and don't gather in big groups.

Conclusion:

Learners can listen to the rhyme again and try to remember it.
